

Is the Future of News a Moral Question?

Matthew Silk

1 – Does local news deserve to be rescued? If it does, who should be responsible for saving it?

2 – Is the news a “necessary public good like firefighting or policing”? Why or why not?

3 – Should companies like Google and Facebook be able to feature newspaper stories in their feeds? What advantages might we see from this? What might be the drawbacks?

4 – What kinds of “news” do people deserve to be made aware of (local news, national news, crime, politics)? Whose responsibility is it to make that information broadly available?
